

The Conscious Person's
Divine Creative Process
(with Feedback Loop)

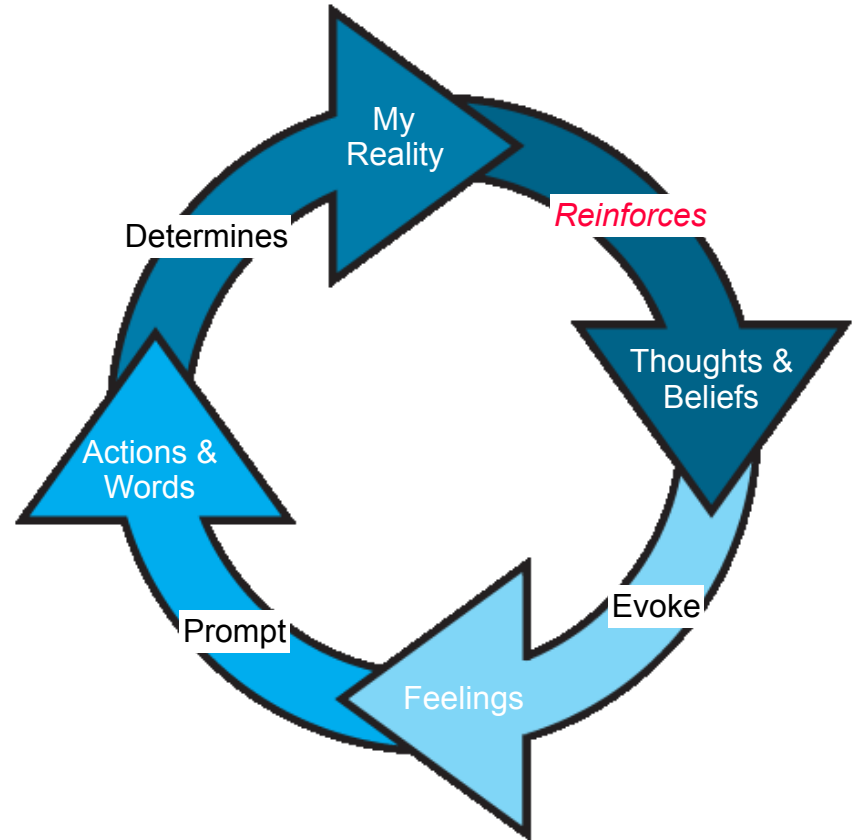

When we're conscious, we know that our thoughts determine our reality.

We use reality as a feedback mechanism to proactively change our thinking. What if we thought differently?

Our lives are open to change, because we actively promote new ideas and thinking.

The Unconscious Person's
Divine Creative Process
(with Reinforced-Belief Loop)

When we're unconscious, we tend to believe that reality exists independently of our thoughts.

We use reality to reinforce what we already think and believe.

Our lives tend to stay exactly as they are, because we do not make mental changes.